Executive Summary

The Institutional Effectiveness Review (IER) is a district-wide process that annually evaluates the effectiveness of our integrated system of planning, resource allocation, implementation, and assessment across the three District entities: Woodland Community College, Yuba College and District Services. The intent of the IER includes ongoing monitoring of the District's accomplishments and opportunities for improvement in pursuit of the strategic goals as we continually strive to improve student learning and success.

The information and analysis in the IER assures YCCD maintains data-informed decision-making in supporting the highest level of quality in our programs, services, and processes. The Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges' (ACCJC) three components of Institutional Effectiveness provide the framework for this review: Program Review, Planning, and Student Learning Outcomes.

The 2013-14 results included in the review indicate the District made significant progress during the academic year in achieving annual planning goals, further advancing the assessment of learning outcomes, and utilizing program review results in continually refining and improving program practices resulting in the appropriate improvements in student achievement and learning. Taken together, the results demonstrate Yuba Community College District is a learning organization engaged in practices that assure ongoing and systemic improvement.

Key Findings include:

1. Program Review

- a. Program Review continues to be a demonstrated strength for YCCD. With an eight-year history of implementation, program review processes are ongoing and used to assess and improve student learning and achievement. Programs and services are identified for regular and systematic review and the responsibilities for oversight for each review are clearly defined. The level of participation in the process is high and personnel recognize that program reviews are incorporated in the planning process and result in appropriate improvements in staffing, facilities, technology, equipment and curricular planning and decision-making.
- b. College and District committees engaged in participatory decision-making understand their role/purpose and how their work supports improving processes and practices, student learning, achievement and success. Committee members indicate their work will be enhanced in the coming year by improving communication across committees, assuring committee outcomes are communicated broadly, committee work is internally evaluated, and by providing training for new committee members.

2. Planning

- a. Clear evidence of progress in achieving each of the five District Short-term Goals exists. The objectives slated for completion in 2013-14 were either fully met or significant progress was made thus assuring the District is on pace to complete.

- b. As planned, the IER contains baseline data for the Key Predictive Indicators thus positioning the Colleges and District Services to set targets for the coming year.
- c. Evaluation results of the Annual Planning, Budget and Evaluation Cycle indicate that while the process as a whole proved effective, recommended modifications will strengthen the cycle for the coming planning year. Selected recommendations include:
 - i. Provide additional training on the District integrated annual planning, budget and evaluation cycle with special emphasis on PSV and the link to program reviews.
 - ii. Simplify the Strategic Planning Process as appropriate to reduce duplication of effort and level of workload for individuals engaged in District planning.
 - iii. Modify the planning and budget process evaluation survey to include questions:
 - 1. that gauge satisfaction with the level of knowledge and understanding of the planning process for personnel across the district and
 - 2. Seek input for annually updating the Strategic Goals and Objectives
 - iv. Modify the PSV prioritization component to assure it is distinct from appropriate college decision-making processes and does not transpose/overtake college priorities.
 - v. Clarify through broad communication that the intent of the strategic planning cycle is to coordinate resource allocation across priorities for the three entities in pursuit of student success throughout the district.
 - vi. Communicate results of the decision-making that occur in PSV and publish a mechanism for tracking outcomes of those resource decisions.
 - vii. Further refine the budget development and resource allocation process to include communication on differing budget scenarios (e.g., budget reduction or stability as opposed to augmentation/restoration funding).
 - viii. Communicate the five long-range Strategic Goals objectives and provide additional explanation on the development of targets for those objectives by the Colleges.
 - ix. Centralize all information on the District annual planning cycle to assure broad dissemination and knowledge of the process.
 - x. Standardize templates for the PSV process and Annual Action Plan objectives.
 - xi. Modify the planning process to position the District for multi-year planning and budgeting.
 - xii. Modify the planning schedule by incorporating planning meetings within the DC3 meeting schedule to address challenges encountered in scheduling meetings.
 - xiii. Simplify the planning cycle by reducing the components from four to three and redistributing the tasks associated with component two to existing committees.

3. Student Learning Outcomes (SLO)

- a. SLO assessment remains a visible priority for the District and learning outcomes are specifically linked to program reviews. SLO percentages are significantly higher than were reported in previous institutional effectiveness reviews demonstrating further advancement in our level of implementation (ACCJC rubric). Evidence reports SLO assessment results inform curriculum improvements and practices and structures at both Colleges.

Following this summary, the full review is divided in four sections. Section one includes the results of the 2012-13 Program Reviews that informed planning for the 2013-14 Academic Year for each of the three District entities: Woodland Community College (WCC), Yuba College (YC) and District Services (DS). In addition, this section contains results of the participatory decision-making groups' evaluations. The achievements of 2013-14 planning goals for each entity and the results of the evaluation of the Annual Integrated Planning, Resource Allocation and Assessment cycle processes and recommendations for improvement in those processes for the upcoming planning year are presented in section two. Section three contains results of the Student Learning Outcomes and Administrative Unit Outcomes.

Section I: Program Reviews

As can be seen from Table 1 below, WCC, YC and DS completed 143 of 169 program reviews in 2013-2014. It is noteworthy that both District Services and Yuba College required full self-evaluations for all program and service units due to changes in program and administrative structure as well as substantive revisions made to the program review processes themselves. Woodland Community College maintained the four-year cycle of full self-evaluations and annual updates. A comprehensive list of programs, services and groups can be found in Appendix F.

Woodland Community College – Program Reviews

During 2013-2014, the Program Review Validation Team (PRVT) piloted the validation rubric to prioritize the program requests for 2014-2015 budget and planning purposes. Based on the evaluation of the PRVT process in 2012-2013, the team evaluated the 2013-2014 reviews as a single group – utilizing technology and computer labs to view the program reviews and filling out one evaluation form per review. While this worked better than the first year, it was still time consuming. As a result, PRVT recommended that recommendations first be prioritized within divisions as well as by committees (staffing, curriculum, SLO, etc.) before being prioritized by PRVT.

Academic Program Reviews

100% of all academic programs (N = 30) completed an annual update or full self-study. Of the 30 academic programs, 14 programs reported that one or more of their prior requests were met – totaling to 41 recommendations that were defined as “addressed/satisfactory progress.” Some examples of the needs that were met are:

- Agriculture - In Spring 2013, the District approved the formal job, and hire of and Agriculture Instructional Associate. The agriculture IA provided decorations/floral arrangements for 5 end-of-year banquets, and roses for the Graduation Ceremony.
- Physical Science/Geology/Geography obtained a glass display cabinet for lobby area of Building 300 in order to display artifacts and student work.
- Speech Program officially changed its name to Communication Studies, and established an associate degree of transfer.

Administrative Service Reviews

100% of all administrative programs (N = 3) completed an annual update or full self-study. Of the 3 units, 2 units reported that some of their prior requests were met – totaling to 5 recommendations that were defined as “addressed/satisfactory progress.” Specifically, the Administrative and Fiscal Office filled the interim Dean positions for both Instruction and Student Services.

Additionally, related to the Administrative Unit's Outcomes (AUO), communication, students reported that while information was being shared, it could occur more frequently, regular and be more accessible. The top preferred method of communication was flyers/handouts, and the second most requested method was email (many citing personal email.) As a result, the WCC President and Director of Research have met with the ASWCC President to discuss strategies to increase communication.

Student Service Reviews

100% of all administrative programs (N = 10) completed an annual update or full self-study. Of the 10 units, 3 units reported a total of 3 recommendations that were defined as “addressed/satisfactory progress.” Examples of recommendations that were addressed are:

- CalWORKS – Hired permanent part-time Employment Service Specialist for 19 hours per week.

- Counseling – Requested full time counseling secretary. The position is being advertised currently. The status of it being 49% or fulltime is still being discussed.
- EOP&S – Successfully developed and launched their website, Portal site, and Facebook page in order to contact and communicate widely with students.

Participatory Decision Making Reviews

The following participatory decision making bodies completed a report to the College Council and Academic Senate on the status of their activities in relation to the strategic plan:

- Accreditation Steering Committee
- Budget and Planning Committee
- Communication Resource Committee
- Diversity Committee
- Faculty, Staff, and Administrative Planning Committee
- Perkins Planning Team
- Program Review Validation Team
- Safety Committee
- Scheduling Committee
- Student Learning Outcomes Committee
- Student Success/Basic Skills Committee

Some examples of achievements and/or evaluative comments from the participatory decision making bodies are:

- Accreditation Steering Committee: Continued work on follow up for the accreditation report, and worked closely with District staff in responding to the District recommendations.
- Budget and Planning Committee: Identified a need for more detailed budget training, and requested that CBO, Kuldeep Kaur, attend and provide regular budget updates and training.
- Program Review Validation Team: PRVT provided the top 7 recommendations for the District PSV (Program and Service Vitality) process last year, and these fed into the hybrid resource allocation model. Additionally, based on feedback from team members on the process, the team recommended that divisions and units complete the first prioritization of requests before PRVT begins their review in order to streamline the processes.
- Student Success/Basic Skills Committee: Completed the 2013-2014 Basic Skills Initiative Plan, and continued to fund the math and reading instruction associate positions to support students in the WAM, ARC and tutoring center. The committee also worked diligently on the Student Equity Plan, which will be submitted to the state in December 2014. At the heart of the Student Equity Plan is funding the Student Success Center concept.

Yuba College – Program Reviews

The purpose of Program Review is broadly two-fold: 1) it provides departments and service programs an opportunity to reflect on their status, needs, and areas for improvement and 2) it allows these same groups to contribute to the planning and budgeting processes at Yuba College. In the latter case, information from Program Review is distributed to members of appropriate Planning Area Writing Groups, who then prioritize and synthesize that information for inclusion in their assigned section of the Yuba College Educational Master Plan. According to A Guide to Integrated Planning and Institutional Effectiveness at Yuba College, departments and programs must complete program reviews “before the end of October, at a date agreed upon the Yuba College Curriculum committee and President’s office.” Soon after, that information is “distributed to the appropriate committees (Academic Senate, Student Services, Human Resources, Facilities and Equipment, and Information Technology) charged with writing planning areas for the Educational Master Plan.” This process is to be accomplished using the software program TracDat.

For the 2013-2014 Academic Year, all programs and services were required to conduct a program review using a newly developed “pilot form.” This new form was intended to standardize program and service review, which were traditionally inconsistent in terms of quality and content. The form also put a greater emphasis on data-informed decision-making.

Academic Program Review

A total of 35 of 45 Academic Programs completed a self-study. Those that did not complete the study either did not have a full-time instructor and/or full-time Dean to oversee the process.

The “pilot” form and the process for completing that form, which relied on the use of TracDat, were flawed in a number of ways. Although the new form was shared and publicized through various means, including emails, college-wide forums, and an Integrated Planning Guide, that it essentially re-invented the program review process created challenges for all involved. Moreover, some faculty and staff complained in a campus-wide survey that there was not enough communication about this new form.

One issue was that preparers were used to a more informal approach to producing the program review, one that was largely narrative based and allowed departments to “tell their story,” highlight their successes, and set their goals for the upcoming cycle. Data analysis played a limited to non-existent role in this old approach. The new form definitely changed that.

The pilot form was daunting for preparers in terms of its length and scope. The new form was constituted by seventeen specific questions whereas the previous form only included five question fields. These questions were drawn from important sources—a program review vitality rubric previously developed by the curriculum committee, ACCJC standards, and a District program vitality rubric—but according to a campus-wide survey, the questions were overwhelming and redundant. Even though some faculty acknowledged the value of these new questions, the change to the new form was too dramatic and overwhelming.

The two biggest criticisms of the 2013-2014 Program Review process had to do with TracDat and the lack of data and data-analysis support provided to the faculty and staff responsible for preparing program review.

Administrative Services

Six of ten Administrative Services completed full self-studies. One of those that did not complete the study was either vacant, due to lack of staff, and another had been moved to District Services. There will be only six Yuba College Administrative Services total for the 2014-15 academic year. One of those six—the Clear Lake Campus—will move to Woodland Community College when the District realigns its college boundaries.

Student Services

Thirteen of 17 Student Services completed full self-studies. One of those services, admissions and records had undergone a transition which possibly accounted for its lack of a study. The college admissions and records director was removed and a District Registrar was created, supervising the processes at both colleges. However, the college staff of admissions and records remained under the purview of the college. Thus, there may have been some confusion as to whether the District or the College was responsible for submitting a program review for admissions and records.

Participatory Decision-Making Reviews

During the 2013-2014 academic year, the college evaluated and re-structured its committee system in order to improve shared decision making and, more specifically, the role of committees in integrated planning.

Yuba College uses two primary tools to measure the effectiveness of our shared governance systems. The first tool is a Shared Decision Making survey. This survey, updated in April 2013 by the YC College Effectiveness and Accreditation Committee (CEAC), was sent to the entire college community in order to measure training, communication, participation, and cooperation of and among committee members. Survey results point to a need:

- to assure training for committee members
- to enhance inter-committee communication across the college committees, and
- to ensure the work of the committees is fully integrated into the college's planning processes.
- Most importantly, the largest majority of survey respondents report that “The work of the committees I serve on is important to the success of Yuba College and its students.

A second way the college assesses the effectiveness of committees is through the two-part Yuba College Committee/Project Team Objectives Report (COR) and Committee Self-Assessment Report (CSAR). Each committee submits COR to the YC College Effectiveness and Accreditation Committee by the third week in September, and in May of each year the same committees file their CSAR based on their work toward obtaining their objectives. The YC College Effectiveness and Accreditation Committee then collects and analyzes these committee self-assessment reports to draw conclusions about how the degree to which committees are engaged in productive work that serves the goals of the institution. Committees are also encouraged to engage in meaningful self-reflection at the beginning of each academic year by reviewing the previous year's CSAR.

Yuba College currently has 22 active, standing committees. Of those 22 committees, 15 submitted to the College Effectiveness Committee a Committee Objective Report and the follow up Committee Self-Assessment Report. Since this was the first full implementation of this reporting system, some of this is to be expected. Although there is not yet 100% participation, employees were generally positive about the idea of developing objectives to focus the work of committees.

Lastly, the Yuba College Council, the lead shared governance committee at Yuba College, annually reviews the purpose and need for each of the college's committees. The Council's purpose in its review is to determine if the number of college committees can be reduced or if work can be shared more efficiently between them.

District Services – Administrative Services Reviews (ASR)

The process for ASRs changed dramatically for this reporting cycle.

- First, as recommended in last year's IE Process Report, DS transitioned to utilizing TracDat for submitting and archiving reviews and supporting documentation.
- A cross-unit ASR Team piloted a service review validation rubric. The intent of the rubric is to assure the comprehensiveness and overall quality of ASR's as they inform planning and resource allocation within District Services.
- As a result of this review by the ASR validation team, service units require additional training in submitting data and evidence. These revisions better prepare DS for prudent planning and budget decisions.

Included in the units' ASR were recommendations for staffing, equipment/technology, and facilities.

- Equipment/Technology: Increased utilization of technology in streamlining manual processes and enhancing efficiencies continues to be a major theme found across the ASRs. In 2012-2013 over a dozen projects were implemented to address specific supports for better student services, to improve efficiencies and overall effectiveness. Some examples of packages that cross units are the implementation of Outlook 365, the development of a Report Server data repository, and payments through HigherOne. More units are using BizHub to scan documents and use less paper as well as provide better access for sharing information among multiple users. Increasing utilization of ImageNow for document management is noteworthy. These initiatives are underway, but will require one-time funds to fully implement:
 - Colleague's Degree Audit
 - Colleague's Electronic Education Plans
 - PeopleAdmin, an online Human Resources application

In short, there is a clear need for additional technology and the support for that technology in order to continue streamlining processes in this manner. Noteworthy examples include virtual student labs, room scheduling, and online tracking systems for contracts and grants.

- Facilities: Since the administrative services units are secondary to meeting the needs of direct student learning spaces, most units recognize the need to remain in their current office spaces although some modifications are recommended such as the expansion of Police Services and the assignment of locations devoted to record retention.
- Staffing: All units experienced a need to reorganize and reprioritize activities to support meeting the needs of students and district personnel via district services. While the combined reviews request an additional 8 FTE over the next several years, there is clear recognition amongst the unit review teams that the largest majority of positions hired in 2014-2015 will and should be directed to those educational programs and services that most directly impact students.

Participatory Decision-Making Process Review

The District's Participatory Decision-Making Process Review is designed to help improve and refine the participatory decision-making procedures and practices aimed at improving student learning and success across the district. The governance and participatory decision-making structure is described in the District Handbook (2013-2014).

In 2013-2014 100% of the eight District standing committees completed a formal Committee Effectiveness Review. Included in that review are six categories of effectiveness: committee purpose, process, participatory decision-making, communication, outcomes and evaluation. In general, committees understood their purpose and how the work of their committee impacted student success. Across all committee assessments was a stated need to improve communication, both internally and externally, especially regarding committee decisions and achievements.

The themes across the eight Committee Effectiveness Reviews as well as strategies to improve the process for the coming year are included in the table below.

Category	Strategies
Committee Structure	Consider committee consolidation
	Revisit membership to minimize duplicative service
Logistics	Distribute agendas timely
	Distribute handout(s) timely
	Accomplish more electronically (e.g., electronic discussions, voting, etc.)
	Eliminate technology issues
	Encourage/ require attendance
Purpose	Revisit committee purpose statements to include goals as appropriate
	Focus on committee purpose (stay on task)
Participatory Decision-Making	Formalize process for decision-making (e.g., first read, then decision)
	Formalize decision-making rules (e.g., define majority, quorum, consensus or recording, etc.)
	Track decisions and revisit/assess more often
Communication	Centralize committee communication (e.g., "one stop" for all committee agendas and minutes)
	Clarify and standardize member communication responsibilities (i.e., in-reporting and out-reporting)
	Develop brief report-out templates (e.g., decision table, etc.)
	Develop acronym reference guide
Outcomes	Memorialize and publicize annual accomplishments and outcomes
Evaluation	Develop annual cycle of internal and external survey instrument administration
	Develop an implementation plan for improving process and outcomes for eight District standing committees
Orientation and Training	Provide annual orientation for new committee members
	Provide professional development for both Face-to-face and meetings at a distance for: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Facilitators Committee members

In fall 2014, each committee will reflect on the results of their CER as well as the themes across the eight CERs and select strategies to improve the effectiveness of their participatory decision-making processes for 2014-15.

District Services – Highlights of Goal Accomplishments (2013-14)

1. Business Services:

- a. Improved Accounts Receivable collections for fiscal stability and fiscal integrity of the District by offering various payment options to students to reduce student debt accounts. This effort led to significantly reducing receivables as compared to prior years.
- b. Enhanced training program District-wide on the budget, procurement, agreement for services, and accounting.
- c. Fully implemented and deployed Net Facilities work order functions and provided training to the District community on the electronic work order process and event communication for Maintenance and Operations.
- d. Addressed multiple health and safety deferred maintenance projects as well as completed projects related to beautification efforts, thereby, enhancing a safe and welcoming physical plant in support of student learning.

2. Educational Planning and Services:

- a. Completed the work of developing, implementing, publishing and evaluating a comprehensive integrated planning, resource allocation and assessment process.
- b. Delineated the functions of the District and Colleges and identified which entity is responsible for each identified function.
- c. Increased the District's capacity for data retrieval and analysis in support of a culture of evidence and data informed decision-making by implementing a Report Server solution.
- d. Transitioned the infrastructure support for the Learning Management System to Information Technologies and implemented Canvas for Spring 2014

3. Human Resources:

- a. Implemented a comprehensive "Strengthening our CORE" professional development program aimed at increasing leadership and managerial competencies across the District
- b. Supported the Chancellor's Office in completing the multi-college organization and institutional processes

Evaluation of the Planning Process:

The comprehensive integrated District Planning, Resource Allocation and Evaluation Process was designed in 2012-13 and implemented in 2013-14. A comprehensive evaluation of the four components of the annual cycle occurred throughout the academic year. Formative assessments resulted in improvements during the process. Ongoing dialogue in multiple venues coupled with the results of a district-wide survey provided recommendations for improvements in the coming year.

Evaluation results of the Annual Planning, Budget and Evaluation Cycle indicate that while the process as a whole proved effective, recommended modifications will strengthen the cycle for the coming planning year. Improvements include:

- i. Provide additional training on the District integrated annual planning, budget and evaluation cycle with special emphasis on PSV and the link to program reviews.
- ii. Simplify the Strategic Planning process as appropriate to reduce duplication of effort and level of workload for individuals engaged in District planning.
- iii. Modify the planning and budget process evaluation survey to include questions:
 1. that gauge satisfaction with the level of knowledge and understanding of the planning process for personnel across the district and
 2. Seek input for annually updating the Strategic Goals and Objectives
- iv. Modify the PSV prioritization component to assure it is distinct from appropriate college decision-making processes and does not transpose/overtake college priorities.
- v. Clarify through broad communication that the intent of the strategic planning cycle is to coordinate resource allocation across priorities for the three entities in pursuit of student success throughout the district.
- vi. Communicate results of the decision-making that occur in PSV and publish a mechanism for tracking outcomes of those resource decisions.
- vii. Further refine the budget development and resource allocation process to include communication on differing budget scenarios (e.g., budget reduction or stability as opposed to augmentation/restoration funding).
- viii. Communicate the five long-range Strategic Goals objectives and provide additional explanation on the development of targets for those objectives by the Colleges.
- ix. Centralize all information on the District annual planning cycle to assure broad dissemination and knowledge of the process.
- x. Standardize templates for the PSV process and Annual Action Plan objectives.
- xi. Modify the planning process to position the District for multi-year planning and budgeting.
- xii. Modify the planning schedule by incorporating planning meetings within the DC3 meeting schedule to address challenges encountered in scheduling meetings.
- xiii. Simplify the planning cycle by reducing the components from four to three and redistributing the tasks associated with component two to existing committees.

The implementation of these recommendations will occur during the current planning cycle and the results reported in the 2014-15 Institutional Effectiveness Review.

Section III: Student Learning Outcomes

Woodland Community College - SLOs: Overview of progress for 2013-14

Ongoing Assessment Percentages by Term

Percentages by Term
	Fall 2012	Spring 2013	Fall 2013	Spring 2014	Fall 2014
Course SLOs	54%	83%	93%	95%	98%
Program SLOs	61%	90%	100%	100%	100%
Student Service Unit Outcomes	100%	100%	100%	100%	100%
Administrative Unit Outcomes	50%	100%	100%	100%	100%
Institutional Outcomes	50%	75%	100%	100%	100%

Some examples of changes or improvements planned as a result of SLO assessments are:

History: The WCC History department is very excited about creating and implementing more cross-SLO assignments and assessments. A cross-SLO assignment includes more than one SLO (one assignment that assesses Critical Thinking, Global Awareness and Personal and Social Responsibility). Here is a specific example that will be hopefully launched for the 2015-2016 academic year: H17B, H11, 5B, and 4B Comparison and Contrasting Leaders of the 20th Century. Students are provided a list of significant individuals from World History. They must select two from different continents and write about how they both impacted history of the 20th century. In writing about the impacts, students must address how each had an influence in their societies/nations politics, economies, and social advancements. Students must make comparisons and write about the different outcomes.

Human Services: As a result of the assessments from the previous year, some changes that we implemented were:

- Emphasizing areas of competency that fewer students mastered by using group projects imbedded in the coursework
- Requiring students to visit the ARC (Academic Reading Center) in order to expose students to tutoring and learning resources to help them better understand the reading assignments. Students receive extra credit for time spent in the ARC (Academic Reading Center.)
- We now have one tutor in the tutoring center and one in DSPS to help students with class assignments.
- We have embedded one tutor this semester in HUSEV 25 which has difficult assignments to help students with content and study groups on Wednesdays. I have already seen a dramatic change in students understanding of content and believe the pre/posttest will reflect this as well.

Library and Learning Resources: This year's SLO assessment reviews the percentage of students checking out library materials. This year there is a 2% drop in the amount of students checking out books compared with the last two years (2011/12 & 2012/13). Enrollment is lower and there have been staffing transitions in the library which could account for this minor change. The Library will continue to monitor this number during years it is not scheduled for assessment to ensure students have access to, and use, library materials they need to successfully complete coursework.

Physics/Astronomy: The following courses have been assessed:

ASTRO-1L (Introduction to Astronomy with Lab)

Physics-2A (General Physics)

Physics-3A (General Physics Lab)

Overall, the criterion for successfully meeting the course SLO was met. Some changes or recognitions were:

- Emphasizing the importance of basic concepts and calculations
- Encouraging students to seek help earlier
- Investigate adding a pre-course assessment and redirection to remediation
- The use of pre-labs was very successful and will be implemented in all physic courses

Administrative Unit Outcomes:

WCC SLO Committee conducted an institutional SLO survey between 3/29/2013 and 5/11/2013 to students in a sample of courses at Woodland, Colusa and online. A total of 207 surveys were collected (198 paper based surveys and 9 online surveys.) [Note: the full survey may be viewed here: <http://wcc-lanning.yccd.edu/SharedFiles/Download.aspx?pageid=15&mid=44&fileid=149>]

Related to the Administrative Unit's Outcomes (AUO), communication, students reported that while information was being shared, it could occur more frequently, regular and be more accessible. The top preferred method of communication was flyers/handouts, and the second most requested method was email (many citing personal email.) As a result, the WCC President and Director of Research have met with the ASWCC President to discuss how to collect more information on specifics of:

1. What information do students want to receive from the President's Office?
2. How often do students want this information sent?

To this end, we will have face-to-face discussions via College Hour and student forums. Also, we plan to leverage WCC's Facebook page and embed a short survey on WCC's page in order to collect some feedback. This feedback will be used to refine the communication plan, and changes are expected to be implemented in spring 2014.

Yuba College - SLOs: Overview of progress for the 2013-2014 Academic Year:

Starting in 2013-2014, Yuba College adopted a model of assessing every course every semester, with an expectation that faculty submit SLO assessment for all courses taught in a semester. Communication of this commitment was accomplished through Yuba College Academic Senate, Convocation, Yuba College meetings, and Division meetings.

In August 2014, an academic dean assumed SLO and TracDat administrative duties. Additionally, the WCC Dean of Student Success/Researcher helped Yuba College with TracDat maintenance.

The effectiveness of the institutional student learning outcomes (iSLOs) for the 2013-2014 academic year was assessed by examining the responses to the graduation survey. All students who graduate from Yuba College were asked to complete a short survey reflecting on their time at Yuba College and discussing their future plans. One hundred and fifty eight students completed the graduation survey in 2013-14. Students at Yuba College (regardless of the academic program) were largely satisfied with their educational experience and leave the college feeling confident in their abilities related to the eight institutional student learning outcomes.

Following the survey analysis, the Yuba College SLO committee created an iSLO assessment schedule, and is working on reevaluating and refining the graduation survey questions, linking the registration surveys to the graduation survey for a pre/post-test measure of iSLOs and looking for additional methods of assessment beyond self-reported survey data.

As a result of the 2013-14 SLO assessments, the Yuba College Effectiveness and Accreditation Committee offered a number of recommendations with regards to SLOs for 2014-15, such as additional training in the use of TracDat and SLO development and assessment at all levels.

In addition, as part of the YC SLO process assessment process, these next steps have been identified and can be found in the 2013-2014 after action report.

1. Scheduled rotations of all levels of SLOs.
2. Ongoing trainings aimed at deepening understanding of the process and benefit of SLOs to continue.
3. Published results of all levels of SLOs.
4. Increased efficiency in surveying incoming and graduating students developed.
5. Provide an increasingly larger percentage of part-time faculty adequate orientation and access to the most current information, which includes course and program SLOs.
6. Continued work on the SLO Handbook and website.

Student Learning Outcomes are used in Yuba College's planning and resource allocation processes. Both course and program SLOs assessment results are incorporated into Program Reviews and in Program and Services Vitality Reports, which in turn are incorporated into Yuba College's Annual Operational Planning and Budget Cycle.

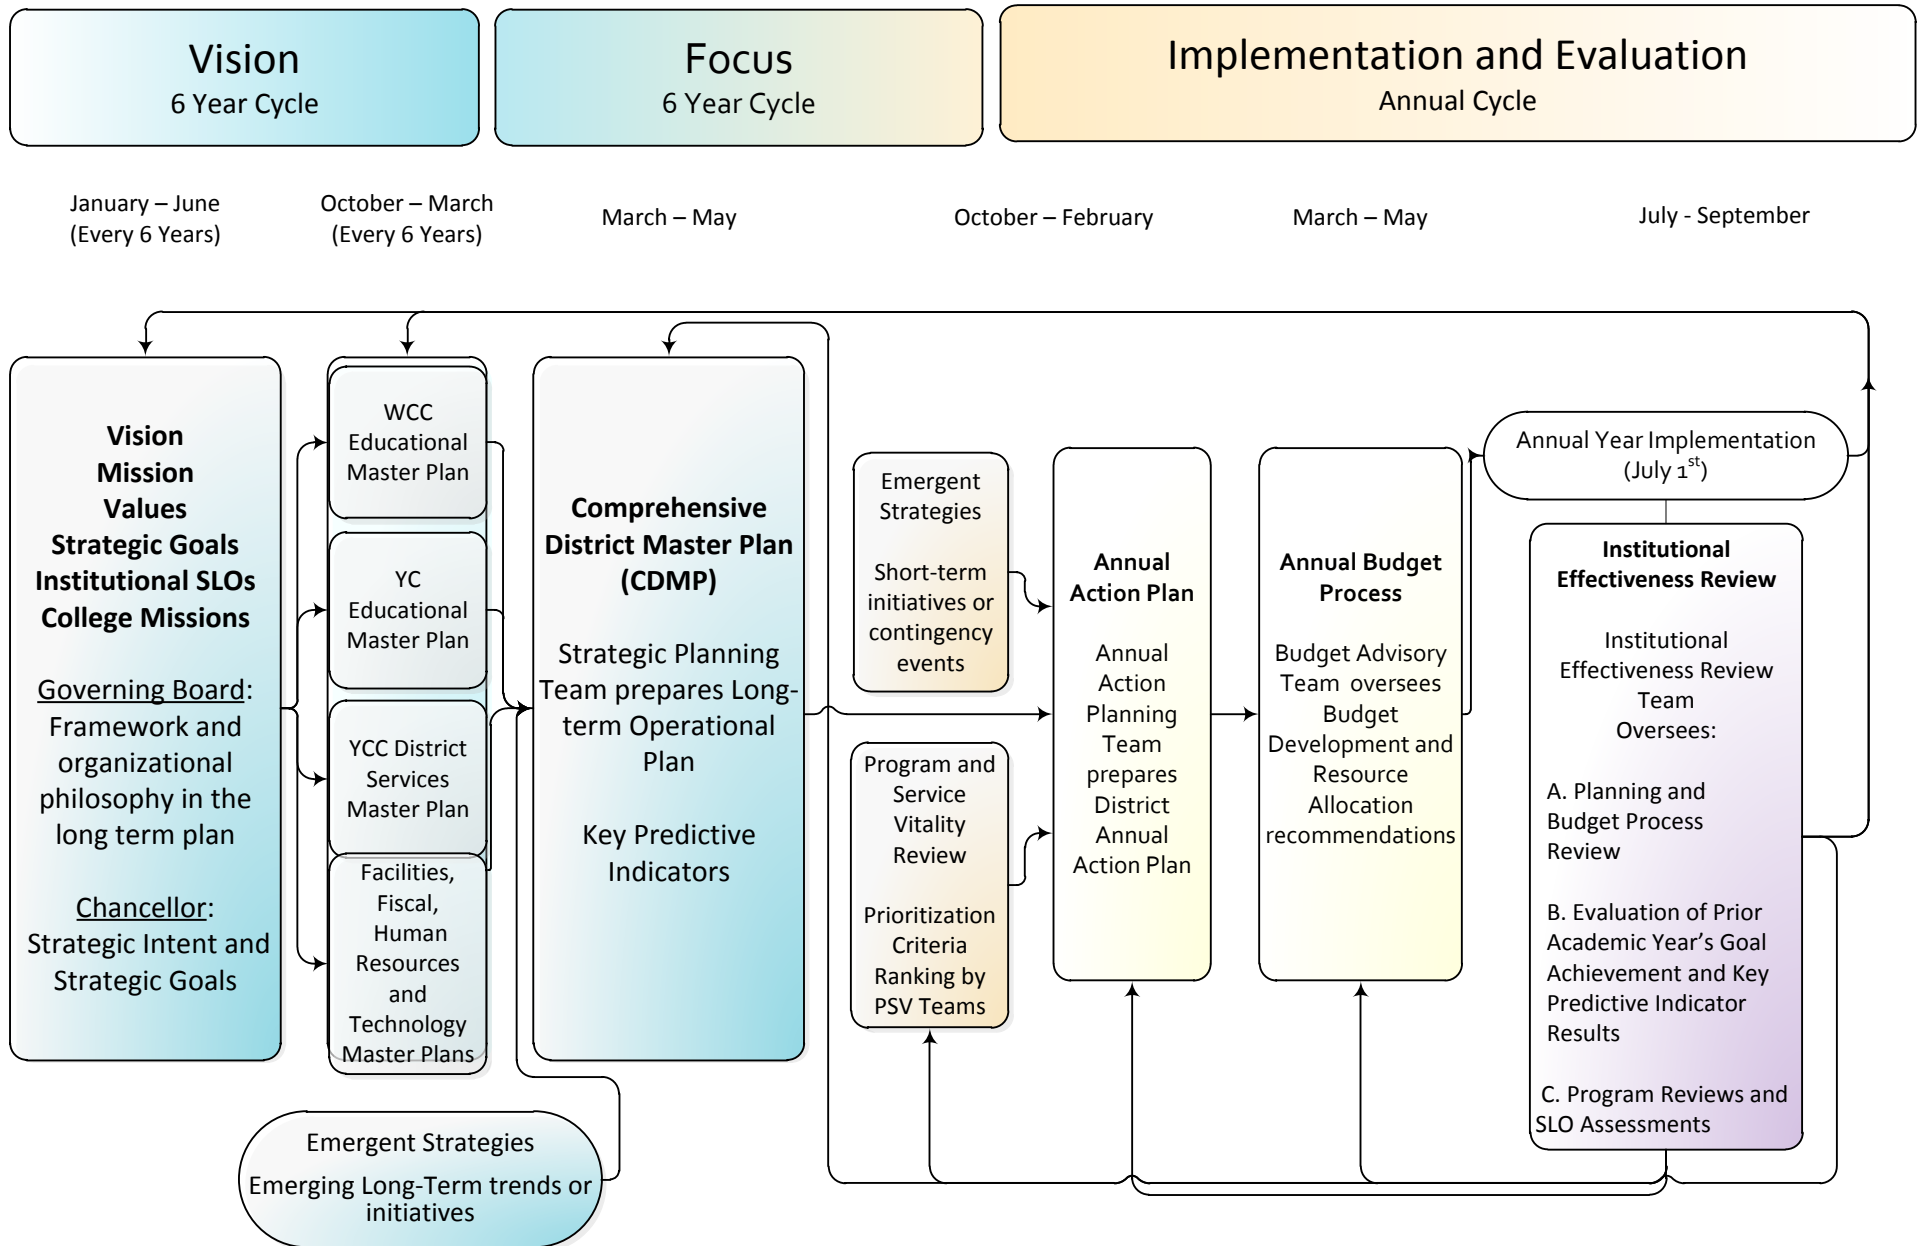

District Services - AUOs

- An integral part of the Administrative Service Review process is the assessment of Administrative Unit Outcomes. In 2013-14, appropriate Administrative Unit Outcomes (AUOs) and assessment measures were determined for District Services' departments.
- Once identified, selected AUOs selected were assessed.
 - Examples of the results include:
 - Foundation: supporting institutional student learning outcomes (iSLOs) Global Awareness and Communication, increase participation in the Public Events Series measured across terms.
 - Human Resources: Increase percentages of personnel participating in mandatory trainings. In both assessments, targets were achieved and exceeded.
 - Information Technologies: Support personnel training with the newly implemented Learning management System

In each of these examples, targets were met and/or exceeded.

- Participants in the administrative services review validation process indicate a need for further training on administrative unit outcomes and this training is slated for fall 2014.
- What remains for 2014-15 is to assess the effectiveness of the identified AUOs for each department in assuring ongoing improvement in District Services as service providers to the Colleges and meeting their needs in supporting student learning and achievement.

From: Barbara Beno, President Barbara Beno

Subject: ACCJC Rubric for Evaluating Institutional Effectiveness

Attached you will find a copy of the Rubric for Evaluating Institutional Effectiveness, updated by the Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges/WASC in June 2011. This Rubric was first published in 2007 and has undergone two previous editorial revisions. The 2011 edition reflects language added to provide some additional detail.

Since 1994, the Commission's Accreditation Standards have required institutions to engage in a systematic and regular review of program quality as well as in short-and long-term planning, and an allocation of resources to assure that institutions achieve their stated mission and assess and improve institutional effectiveness. The 2002 Accreditation Standards added requirements that institutions become more intentionally supportive of student learning by defining intended student learning outcomes, assessing learning, and incorporating the results of assessment into decisions about institutional priorities and improvement plans.

The Rubric for Evaluating Institutional Effectiveness was developed to assist colleges as they conduct self evaluation, and to assist external review teams as they examine institutional quality during accreditation reviews. The Rubric gives institutional members, evaluators, and the Commission a common language to use in describing the institution's practices in three key areas of the continuous quality improvement process – Program Review, Integrated Planning, and Student Learning Outcomes.

It is important to note that the sample behaviors described in each text box of the Rubric are not new criteria or standards for evaluation of an institution's quality, but rather are examples of behavior that, if characteristic of an institution, would indicate the institution's stage in the implementation of the Accreditation Standards, particularly Standard IB and important sections of Standard II and Standard III. The Rubric should be used in conjunction with the Accreditation Standards and the Guide to Evaluating Institutions, and Guide to Evaluating Distance Education and Correspondence Education.

The Commission has previously announced its expectations for institutional performance with regard to the practices described in the Rubric, as follows:

- The Commission expects all accredited institutions to be at the Sustainable Continuous Quality Improvement level in Program Review (Part 1 of the Rubric) and Planning (Part 2 of the Rubric).
- At present, the Commission expects all accredited institutions to be at least at the Development Level or above in Student Learning Outcomes (Part 3 of the Rubric).
- The Commission expects all accredited institutions to be at the Proficiency Level in Student Learning Outcomes by fall 2012. The Commission will assess all member institutions during the 2012-13 year.

Institutions in the ACCJC membership widely share a commitment to the purposes of assessment – to improve student outcomes. The Commission hopes that institutional leaders will find the 2011 Rubric helpful as they assess their own institution's quality and work to achieve greater student success.

The Commission welcomes any ideas for improving the Rubric and for improving institutional practices in continuous quality improvement.¹ Please direct comments to accjc@accjc.org.

Appendix F

Key Predictive Indicator (KPIs) Descriptions and Definitions

The purpose of KPIs: Standard I.B.2: “The institution sets goals to improve its effectiveness consistent with its stated purposes. The institution articulates its goals and states the objectives derived from them in measureable terms so that the degree to which they are achieved can be determined and widely discussed. The institutional members understand these goals and work collaboratively toward their achievement.” (Five Short-Term Goals adopted October, 2013)

Short-Term Goal 1: Improve Student Success and Completion (1 Completed and 2 In Progress and On Pace to Achieve)
